

Alpe-Adria Textil s.r.l., established in 1990 as a company engaged in the design, production and marketing of technical textiles, was awarded the CE marking in accordance with the standards UNI EN 13249, UNI EN 13250, UNI EN 13251, UNI EN 13257, UNI EN 13265 and UNI EN 15381 for its products in 2005. Backed up with the experience gained in the production of quality geotextiles, it is currently seeking certification for its quality management system in accordance with the standard UNI EN ISO 9001:2008.

The objectives of AAT are:

- supplying products that meet the needs and expectations of the customers;
- supplying products that are in compliance with the standards requested by the customers and established by the company, as well as the legal requirements;
- implementing a process of continuous improvement that enables the reduction of inefficiency and complaints, and their respective costs;
- improving the production process through the development of more efficient technical textiles.

Within the company, these aims must be attained through:

- the continuous training of the personnel, aimed at promoting the culture of quality and awareness of the importance of the active participation of everyone, depending on the post they occupy;
- the implementation by all the personnel, each for their own area of responsibility, of the matters covered in the manual and the corporate quality procedures;
- the continuous control of the levels of production efficiency;
- the continuous control of the quality level of the products supplied;
- the continuous monitoring of complaints and customer satisfaction.

As a consequence of the above, AAT expects:

- an authoritative and esteemed market image;
- the extension of dealings with established customers and the acquisition of new customers;
- a stable financial situation with constantly improving results.

The corporate management of AAT also undertakes to review its quality management system annually in order to keep it constantly updated, in line with the needs of the company and customers, and to improve its effectiveness and efficiency.
